ESCMID/ASM Conference on Drug Development
Meet the Challenge of Antimicrobial Resistance

Porto, Portugal
September 17 – 20, 2024

Announcement

Dear Esteemed Colleagues and Sponsors,

We are thrilled to extend a cordial invitation on behalf of the European Society of Clinical Microbiology and Infectious Diseases (ESCMID) and the American Society for Microbiology (ASM) to the Conference on Drug Development addressing the Antimicrobial Resistance Challenge. This crucial event is scheduled to take place from September 17 to 20, 2024, in the enchanting city of Porto, Portugal, at the Hilton Porto Gaia.

Antimicrobial Resistance (AMR) persists as a profound threat to human health despite substantial investments from public and private initiatives. Developing new antimicrobials to combat AMR remains an intricate and challenging task. The conference will focus on the complexities of creating novel agents for AMR, spanning from medicinal chemistry to the collaborative efforts of the international community in generating new antibiotics.

Throughout the conference, an array of engaging lecture formats will guide participants through every facet of the drug development and approval process for new antimicrobials. Topics will range from lead searching and susceptibility testing to understanding pharmacokinetic/pharmacodynamic relationships, with insights into future possibilities offered by technologies like machine learning.

Complementing these sessions, a series of workshops and poster presentations will foster open dialogue on the development of new antimicrobials and the challenges posed by AMR in the use of existing agents.

We are pleased to announce that registration is now open, and we invite abstract submissions from May 27 to June 17, 2024. We eagerly anticipate your participation in this vital gathering in Porto.

Save the Date and join us in advancing the fight against Antimicrobial Resistance!

The Venue

Nestled along the scenic banks of the Douro River, Porto, captivates visitors with its timeless charm and rich cultural tapestry. Renowned for its historic significance and architectural splendour, Porto is a UNESCO World Heritage site. Cobblestone streets wind through colourful neighbourhoods, while iconic landmarks like the Dom Luís I Bridge and the Clerigos Tower punctuate the skyline. This coastal city, famed as the birthplace of port wine, invites exploration of its renowned wine cellars in the Vila Nova de Gaia district. Porto also thrives as a vibrant cultural hub, hosting festivals, art exhibitions and a dynamic culinary scene that celebrates the flavours of Portugal.

Located in the Vila Nova de Gaia district, the Hilton Porto Gaia is itself a renovated wine warehouse and is a brief stroll away from the Douro River and various port wine cellars. Guests can relish the bar facilities while taking in panoramic views of Porto. The Wellness Centre, complete with various treatments, an indoor pool, steam bath, sauna, and fitness facilities, is also at the disposal of visitors.
